Read the following passage and answer the questions given below :

People often moan about poverty as a great evil, and it seems to be an accepted belief that if people only had plenty of money, they would be happy and useful and could get more out of life. As a rule, there is more genuine satisfaction in life and more obtained from life in a humble cottage of a poor man than in the palaces of the rich. I always pity the sons and daughters of rich men, who are attended by servants and governesses at a later age; at the same time, I am glad to think that they do not know what they have missed.

It is because I know how sweet and happy and pure the home of honest poverty is; how free from perplexing care and from social envies and jealousies – how loving and united its members are in the common interest of supporting the family – that I sympathize with a rich man's boy and congratulate a poor man's boy. It is for these reasons that from the ranks of the poor so many strong, eminent, self-reliant men have always sprung and always must spring if you will read the list of the "Immortals who were not born to die," you will find that most of them have been born poor.

It seems now-a-days a matter of universal desire that poverty should be abolished. We should be quite willing to abolish luxury; but to abolish honest industrious and self denying poverty would be to destroy the soil upon which mankind produces virtues that will enable our race to reach a still higher civilization than it now possesses.

Questions :

- 1) Why do people believe that poverty is a great evil ?
  - 2) Why should the children of the rich be pitied ?
  - 3) Why is a poor's home sweet and happy ?
  - 4) From where have strong and eminent men been born ? Why ?
  - 5) Why should one be willing to abolish luxury ?
